It was a stellar morning for the city's annual Easter Egg Carnival.

The Community Services Department hosted the annual free event at C.F. Mueller Park on March 28. The sunny skies and spring weather enhanced the spirited atmosphere. About 450 people came to the carnival, which featured games, prizes, activities and, yes, Easter eggs filled with candy or trinkets.

Two-year-old Samantha Duarte can't take her eyes off a crafts demonstration from Peña's Disposal Service that showed how to recycle material to make a container for Easter eggs.
